Anxiety disorders are common, chronic illnesses that often cause major disability. Psycho-stimulant drugs are first-line pharmacologic agents in the treatment of anxiety. Benzodiazepines are thought to reduce all anxiety symptoms by selectively enhancing GABA-A receptor-mediated inhibition in the brain. Clonazepam in doses of 0.5-1.5 mg/day is a rapid-onset anxiolytic agent for the short-term treatment of anxiety. However, it has limited efficacy in the treatment of many patients with chronic and residual anxiety, agitation, insomnia, cognitive abnormalities, and motor agitation. Midazolam, at a dose of 1-5 mg/day, is a rapid-onset anxiolytic agent for mild anxiety. The sedating effect of midazolam may be increased by the addition of 1-3 mg of triazolam. Clozapine is an atypical antipsychotic agent that produces rapid improvement in the symptoms of anxiety. It can be used as monotherapy at a dose of 100-400 mg/day for acute agitation and for 1-2

So I have some HTML/CSS, I think it's pretty self-explanatory: HTML CSS #logo { transition:.5s; background-image:url(logo.png); background-repeat: no-repeat; width: 164px; height: 164px; } Strangely enough, even though I have transition:.5s; in my CSS, the background-image element stays the same. I have also tried background-attachment: fixed, and while that does change the image, it only gets loaded once. Any ideas? A: Just a couple of things: CSS has to run before Javascript. HTML doesn't really matter here, but IMO it should be inside the div. The transition property needs to be added to the element with the transition. Here's a fiddle. HTML CSS #logo { transition:.5s; background-image:url(background-repeat: no-repeat; f678ea9f9e
